

Wendy Madigosky

Wendy S. Madigosky MD MSPH is an Associate Professor of Family Medicine, Director of the Foundations of Doctoring Curriculum, Director of the Interprofessional Education and Development course, and Assistant Director of Interprofessional Education at the University of Colorado School of Medicine on the Anschutz Medical Campus. She received her fellowship training in medical education through the University of Missouri-Columbia's Department of Family and Community Medicine. During her fellowship, she designed and studied a patient safety and medical fallibility curriculum for interprofessional learners. She is involved in the on-going development of patient safety/quality improvement curriculum for the interprofessional Anschutz Medical Campus. Dr. Madigosky was an inaugural member of the University of Colorado's Academy of Medical Educators and a 2012-2014 Josiah Macy Jr. Foundation Faculty Scholar. She is the Faculty and Network Advisor for the Institute for Healthcare Improvement (IHI) Open School and advises her local University of Colorado chapter. She has been a participant/faculty member of the Telluride Experience since 2008 and is passionate about introducing safety/quality to health professional students early in their education. Dr. Madigosky firmly believes that safety/quality improvement knowledge and skills are fundamental to health professions education.
